

Refer A Case

We receive referrals from law firms of all sizes, from solo practitioners to large mega-firms. Lawyers in every type of practice area, from IP to corporate, public interest to tort defense, tax to patent to trademark, have put their trust and reliance in our firm with the referrals of friends, family and clients to investigate and prosecute injury and death claims. We investigate and evaluate cases, whether at its inception or on the eve of trial. Because of our reputation within the legal community, a significant number of cases are referred by other lawyers.

Our Referral Agreements & Payments

All referral agreements and referral fees are paid consistent with the State Bar Rule 2-200. When entering into a fee sharing agreement with other lawyers, the client is advised, and the referring attorney is identified in our retainer agreement. The division of fees is approved by the client in writing. Recognition and acknowledgment of the referral agreement by the client at the time of retention, prevents any later misunderstanding regarding the division of fees.

Over the years, we have paid millions of dollars in referral fees. In each case, the amount or percentage of the referral fee is different, depending on the individual circumstances of the case. Examples of cases of which we have paid referral fees include medical negligence, construction site injuries, automobile, motorcycle, and truck collisions, defective products, and government liability.

We welcome the referrals at any point in the litigation of a case. Litigation and trial of serious and catastrophic injury or wrongful death cases is difficult and expensive. It often involves considerable risk and capital resources to properly pursue a particular case. Bennett and Johnson stands ready to receive referrals, permitting referring council to focus on their own disciplines or specialties, conserving their financial resources and trusting that Bennett & Johnson will maximize the result for the client.
